

GOVERNOR GRANTS PARDON TO KINCAID

Latter Had Killed Man Who Betrayed Sister—Circumstances Peculiar.

BRAINSTORMS OVERWORKED

[Special to The Times-Dispatch.]
RALEIGH, N. C., May 1.—Governor Glenn granted a pardon to-day for John Y. Kincaid, who was sentenced to three years in the penitentiary for the killing of William Brown under remarkable and extenuating circumstances, which, as reviewed by the Governor in a comprehensive statement, were that Kincaid had a younger sister, who had been betrayed when she was about sixteen, when she was to a great extent unprotected by proper watchmen. Kincaid took this sister into his home, shielded her amid Christian influences, getting her back into the esteem of good people. William Brown began paying attention to her, and the brother went to him, told her past life, and his effort to save her. Brown insisted that his desire was to win her for his wife; his letters and conduct indicated love and honorable intention. Finally Kincaid found that Brown had also betrayed his sister. When confronted with the condition, Brown still insisted that he was going to marry the girl, and the preparations for the wedding were set on foot. About this time Kincaid was approached and asked if he had attended the wedding, and on asking what wedding, was told that it was that of William Brown and the "widow," another woman in the neighborhood. While they were talking Brown and his bride came by. Kincaid followed them to the depot, and after an altercation with the bridegroom, shot him twice. Kincaid then fled to the mountains, where he was captured. He pleaded insanity, but the jury found him guilty. He was sentenced to three years in the penitentiary. In the statement, the Governor says: "I am not a defender of the unwritten law. I think the plea of brainstorm and self-defense has been carried too far, but when the man was trying to pull his sister out of the gutter, and placed confidence in Brown, which confidence was betrayed by his ruining his sister; and when, after his going to him and giving him a chance to right the wrong he had done, Brown then, without warning, married another woman and came into the presence of the man he had wronged, cannot put myself in his place, and God knows what, under the circumstances, I or any other man would have done. Therefore, accepting the recommendation of the judge, solicitor and jury, I grant a pardon to this man on condition that he remains of good character, and especially am I prompted to do this because subsequent developments have shown that the deceased was a man of bad character, having three living wives at the time of his death, and having before this acted in a similar manner in another case."

Not Defender of Unwritten Law.

In concluding the statement, the Governor says: "I am not a defender of the unwritten law. I think the plea of brainstorm and self-defense has been carried too far, but when the man was trying to pull his sister out of the gutter, and placed confidence in Brown, which confidence was betrayed by his ruining his sister; and when, after his going to him and giving him a chance to right the wrong he had done, Brown then, without warning, married another woman and came into the presence of the man he had wronged, cannot put myself in his place, and God knows what, under the circumstances, I or any other man would have done. Therefore, accepting the recommendation of the judge, solicitor and jury, I grant a pardon to this man on condition that he remains of good character, and especially am I prompted to do this because subsequent developments have shown that the deceased was a man of bad character, having three living wives at the time of his death, and having before this acted in a similar manner in another case."

Three applicants for distiller's licenses have been refused, one withdrew and one was granted license. The license granted for retail license was from near Danville. About twenty applicants for distiller's license are now on the docket to be heard at this term, which will require several days. The Anti-Saloon League is being represented by R. W. Peatross, of Danville, and John W. Carter, of Martinsville. The license granted was to S. D. Shelton, four miles from this place. Dry Fork Distilling Company, four miles south of Chatham, and the largest distillery in this section of the State, is among the number to be heard.

PI KAPPA ALPHAS IN SESSION HERE

Large Attendance at Opening of Session of Convention in Richmond.

GRAND COUNCILOR IN WRECK

The convention of the Pi Kappa Alpha Fraternity, which will be in session here to-morrow night, was opened at the Jefferson Hotel yesterday morning with prayer by Rev. J. Gray McAllister, grand chaplain, and the attendance of delegates and visiting members was much larger than had been expected.

The feature of the morning session was an eloquent address of welcome by Hon. James A. Cabell, of the University of Virginia, in behalf of the alumni. Mr. Cabell extended to the visitors a very hearty greeting. He spoke of the warm affection that has always existed in this fraternity and the strong ties by which they were bound together, and incidentally referred to the wonderful growth of the order and attributed it to the high standard of character and the true manner in which the brethren had always shouldered to shoulder upon every occasion. He spoke of the old days at the University of Virginia, when he was a student there, and of how the fraternity had grown and flourished, and how much it was respected by all the students of the University. He said that he was a student there, and of how the fraternity had grown and flourished, and how much it was respected by all the students of the University.

Was Never Shaken.

"Its foundation," he said, "is laid to so deep and broad, and strong in sincere friendship, in brotherly love and in unshaken truth, that upon its has been reared a fraternal temple, built of faithful and true, and so filled with the best, the highest, the noblest principles, that no storm of adversity, no voice of jealous clamor, no war of discord, no clash of selfish ambition has ever yet displaced a single stone or caused a tremor in our noble structure."

"But we remember that every one of us has, to a greater or less degree, in his keeping, the welfare of this splendid edifice, and the good name and reputation of our fraternity."

"This is a trust that has come down to us, and we must see to it that we take no step backward, but move forward, onward, upward."

"Make your chapters centers of influence for good. Set your faces unflinchingly against every form of evil, and wrong, and set your standards on the highest hills, and let the world know that it means something to be a Pi Kappa Alpha."

Heartily applause greeted Mr. Cabell's address. He was followed by Mr. John Martin, who spoke words of welcome on behalf of Omicron Chapter of the college. Grand Councilor Floyd Hughes was to respond on behalf of the convention, but owing to a railroad collision he was detained, and did not reach the city in time.

Graham Salt and Delegate T. J. Williams, of Alpha, spoke for the chapters.

Committees Named.

Grand Principals J. Pike Powers occupied the chair until the arrival of Mr. Hughes, who then presided. Upon assuming the chair Grand Councilor Hughes named the standing committees.

The grand secretary read the minutes of the last convention held in Chattanooga in 1905, and they were approved. Reports of the grand officers were read and referred.

Afternoon Session.

The convention took a recess for lunch, and reconvened at 2 o'clock. The report of the committee on credentials showed that all the officers were present, and that every chapter was represented, nearly one hundred and fifty delegates and visiting members being in attendance.

Reports from the various chapters were read, and they were of the most encouraging nature.

The night session was taken up with further reports, and with a number of addresses by delegates on various subjects.

Program To-Day.

The program for the remainder of the convention is as follows: Thursday, 9:30 A. M. to 1 P. M.—Reading of minutes, previous session; report of committees on constitution and ritual, and discussion and suggestions by delegates; reports and discussion; chapter houses; "Shield and Diamond"; adjournment for lunch.

To 6 P. M.—Exposition of external and internal chapter workings; discussion of plans for bettering; methods of installing new chapters; visitors' branch; adjournment for dinner.

Unfinished business; previous session; report of committee on deceased members; report of committee on chapter books; report of committee on grand treasurer's books.

INSANITY WILL BE PETTUS'S PLEA

Statements of Prisoner, Who Took Matters Very Calmly, Are All at Variance.

VERDICT OF CORONER'S JURY

William B. Pettus was arraigned in the Police Court yesterday morning on the charge of murdering Lizzie Allen, colored, and attempting to murder W. B. Smith, foreman of steamfitters at Miller & Rhoads's. The coroner's jury, summoned to investigate the cause of the Allen woman's death, had not at that time rendered a verdict, and the trial was postponed until Saturday morning.

Later in the day the coroner's jury brought in a verdict to the effect that Lizzie Allen came to her death from the effects of wounds on the throat inflicted by William B. Pettus. Several witnesses testified before the jury.

Sarah Robinson, colored, said that she heard Pettus break into the room. There was considerable scuffling and voices were raised in anger. She heard the woman tell Pettus to get out, and the latter replied that he would cut her throat.

Mrs. L. A. Rogers testified that her husband had told her that at 6:30 o'clock Tuesday morning he had seen in Lizzie's room a white man whom he took to be one of the boarders.

Parker Linwood, the nine-year-old son of Mrs. Kidd, stated that he had heard Pettus say that he intended killing four or five people.

Pettus Very Calm.

Notwithstanding the seriousness of the charge against him—murder and attempted murder—the prisoner seemed unusually collected, and his manner was that of a man to whom he had been appointed a duty which he had the satisfaction of feeling had been well performed. There was no trace of tremor in his voice, and his nerves did not betray him in the slightest.

Pettus asked for a private talk with his counsel, Attorney Harry M. Smith, which was granted by the court. The conversation between the two was carried on before an officer, and after it the prisoner seemed to feel fully reassured, for he entered the court-room with a smile upon his countenance.

Pettus apparently does not recognize the enormity of his crime. The man gave every appearance of insanity, for his thoughts were so disconnected as to convey the idea that he had a realization whatever of what he had done. He claimed that he had been commissioned by God to kill several people, and, moreover, he was anxious to be freed that he might go out and finish the job to which he believed he had been assigned.

The case will come up on Saturday, and it is the general impression that the attorney retained by the prisoner will enter a plea of insanity. As the case now stands there is no other possible avenue of escape for Pettus, and in pleading insanity it would seem that this is the only mark of sanity that he has exhibited.

CORPSE IN CANAL.

Third Body Recovered Within Twenty-Four Hours.

The waters shall render up their dead, it has been said, and yesterday the third corpse in twenty-four hours was given up by the waters of the canal at the foot of Seventeenth Street.

The body, which was in a badly decomposed condition, was that of a negro. As to how it came to be in the water and as to the manner of the man's death were matters that could not be discovered from marks on the body, which was too far decomposed to admit of any physical analysis.

The body was taken to a negro undertaking establishment, where it was prepared for burial in Potter's field.

FOUND SOME MILK STATIONS FILTHY

Health Officer and Inspector Report Unspeakable Conditions at Certain Places.

FIGHT FOR PURE MILK IS ON

Dr. Ernest C. Levy, health officer of the city of Richmond, is now ready to inaugurate his campaign for pure milk. He has arranged for a meeting of dairy farmers, dairymen, milk dealers and those who handle the products of the dairy farms hereabout at the Mechanics Institute, on Thursday evening, May 9th, at 8 o'clock. This meeting will be addressed by Dr. Levy in an exposition of the work of the health department for clean, pure milk. Heretofore milk inspection has been confined chiefly to the degree of richness and the purity of the milk, but without regard to bacteriological examination. The campaign about to be started is designed to prevent the sale of any milk that is not free of bacteria and that is not produced and handled under conditions of absolute cleanliness.

To Secure Co-operation.

The purpose of Dr. Levy in inviting all those who supply milk to the Richmond consumers and all others interested in this subject to meet him is to enlist their co-operation in securing a high standard and then maintaining it. Generally the dairymen are very careful and cleanly in their handling of milk, but there are various farms near the city from which milk is brought in small quantities and sold, either to dairies, to small suburban merchants or to consumers. These have not heretofore been reached, but it is the intention of the department to institute and maintain a rigid inspection of these milk farms for the protection of the health of consumers.

Yesterday Dr. Levy and Inspector Curtis, of the department, made a tour of the dairies around the city, visiting many small dairies or farms producing milk which is sold in this city.

Last night Dr. Levy stated that they had found certain dairies not meeting requirements. This is the first step, filthy condition," demonstrating urgent need of inspection. Some of those visited were in very good sanitary condition, but others were very far from it.

In his talk to the dairymen next week Dr. Levy will explain in detail the requirements for pure milk and sanitary surroundings, and will urge the importance of cleanliness in the milking process, in the quarters, where the milk is handled, and on the part of the milkers.

The very great part played by impure milk in the spread of disease will be fully shown, and an earnest appeal will be made to all to meet the requirements. This is the first step. Thereafter regular inspections will be made, and in the event any farmer or dairyman fails to come up to sanitary requirements, the product of his place will be confiscated if found in this city.

Laboratory Fitted Up.

Mr. Curtis, formerly assistant food inspector, has been detailed to inspect dairies, and has already begun work. Mr. E. M. Noble has been made assistant food inspector.

The Department of Health has fitted up a laboratory in the City Hall for bacteriological analysis of milk, and hereafter all milk used in this city will be subjected to scientific tests for bacteria, as well as careful inspection as to cleanliness in the handling.

The department will also establish a tuberculosis dispensary as soon as arrangements can be completed therefor. This dispensary will be in charge of physicians, and persons up to suffer with tuberculosis will be treated free and given careful supervision. This, in connection with the prospective tuberculosis exhibit, will constitute the beginning of this phase of health work in the city.

Flow of Gas Works Waste Will Be Stopped.

At a meeting of the Council Committee on Light last night steps were taken to prevent the flow of waste products from the lower gas works into the river. Complaint had been made that the stream was being polluted by gas-tar from the works. It developed that it was not tar, but oil and waste. The superintendent was instructed to put in certain pipe connections which will effectually prevent this flow hereafter.

The department was directed to replace the small main now in with a six-inch gas main from Seventeenth and Marshall Streets, up Marshall Street to Church Hill Avenue, thence along that avenue to Twenty-second Street, and thence to Venable Street, in order to meet the increased and increasing demand for gas in that section and beyond.

Councilman E. D. Richardson, of Marshall Street, was present.
